Located near the St. Margarets Church, this house, which is believed to have been the church rectory, has been extensively altered in recent years. It is a two part, 2 story frame building under a continuous Aroof with brick, end chimneys. A one story entrance foyer extending from the front of the house was added by the present owners. The rear of the house has been enlarged by a two-story shed-roofed addition and a raised section with a wide A-roof of slight pitch, its ridge running perpendicular to the main part of the house. A small brick meat house behind the house has been converted to a storage shed, and a two story frame building, once used as a carriage house has now become a separate dwelling unit. It has a large exterior, brick chimney at the end facing the road.

The interior of the main house has also be remodeled.
